

Research indicates that school climate can either be a positive influence on students' learning environment or can serve as a significant barrier to students' learning. Researchers have documented that positive ratings of student climate contribute to factors that help high economically disadvantaged schools beat the odds of high student attrition. Indeed, students at high performing schools with high levels of economic disadvantage had more positive ratings of behavioral environment and adult fairness and respect in principal than did students at lower performing schools with similar levels of economic disadvantage.

The following tables show the total number of surveys students at Ferrero Thompson completed in table and the response rate by grade level.
